FutureNet Group Receives ISO 9001:2008 Certification

Detroit, MI, June 8, 2010--FutureNet Group is pleased to announce that it has been certified as an International Organization for Standardization 9001:2008 (ISO 9001:2008) company. The ISO 9001:2008 represents an international consensus on quality management systems and certifies that the company has met these standards, while aiming to enhance customer satisfaction and achieve continual improvement.

“To compete in today’s global economy, we needed to prove that our management systems met international standards of efficiency,” said Perry Mehta, president. “This certification verifies that FutureNet Group uses consistent, international, customer quality requirements, and positions us to compete at new levels throughout the world.”

Everyone at FutureNet Group had implemented the ISO 9001:2008 Quality Management System earlier this year. There were numerous steps in the process including customer service audits, multiple internal audits, site visits, and comparison with state-of-the-art practices.

About ISO

ISO (International Organization for Standardization) is the world's largest developer and publisher of International Standards.

ISO is a network of the national standards institutes of 161 countries, one member per country, with a Central Secretariat in Geneva, Switzerland, that coordinates the system.

ISO is a non-governmental organization that forms a bridge between the public and private sectors. On the one hand, many of its member institutes are part of the governmental structure of their countries, or are mandated by their government. On the other hand, other members have their roots uniquely in the private sector, having been set up by national partnerships of industry associations.

Therefore, ISO enables a consensus to be reached on solutions that meet both the requirements of business and the broader needs of society.
